

Hello Ladies! I hope you are all having a nice time at home. I miss seeing your smiling faces, and feeling the enthusiasm that you enliven our class with each day. We will continue our learning this week to keep our brain muscle moving and as we do that we can think of each of our classmates doing the same thing in their house, and in that way it can almost feel like we are together!

Each day you will have three different small assignments to complete:

The first assignment is your daily reading drill. The daily reading drill comes with one passage per week and the questions are broken up by day. Each day you will read the passage and answer the questions for that day.

Your next assignment is to set a timer and read a book of choice for a minimum of five minutes every day. After you complete your reading, find your tic-tac-toe reading board and respond to one question using what you read in your book. Please keep all of your responses on one paper and write the date for each response. Responses should be written in complete sentences. You are required to complete 3 responses a week.

Your last assignment is to work on a paragraph over the course of the week. Make sure to keep all of the parts of your assignment together. On the first day you will list all of your ideas about the prompt/topic. On the second day you will fill out a T-chart to plan your paragraph. On the third day, you will set a timer for 7 minutes and begin your rough draft. On the fourth day you will finish writing your paragraph. You will have a few prompts to choose from. Make sure to use a go-to for your topic sentence, use appropriate transitions, vary your detail sentences, and write a conclusion that includes the main idea(no “this”, “that”, or “these” written in a different form than the topic sentence).

I am here for each one of you always, and especially in these new circumstances, so please feel free to reach out to me with any issues, concerns, suggestions, or good jokes 😊. My email is estherbschubert@gmail.com and phone number is 443-301-2821.

All the best, Miss Schubert
