

, and , but , or , so

Comma, comma, comma, comma,

Comma, comma, comma, comma,

comma and      comma but      comma or      comma so

(*clap*)The comma comes first!

comma and      comma but      comma or      comma so

To the tune of Shir Hama'alos

“and” adds the same; “but” shows it’s different;

“or” gives a choice; “so” says because.

I like chocolate, and she does, too.

I like taffies, but she likes sour chews.

Do you want to go outside, or do you want to stay in the room?

I did not bring a coat, so I can’t go with you.
