

at, not by

(Oh once there was a wicked, wicked man)

I'm sleeping by my friend's house tonight;

I'll be under her window.

I'll lie down in a flower bed,

covered up by a blanket of cold, white snow.

Oh, how much I'd rather, rather be

inside the house,

with her right next to me,

but that could only be if I say,

"I'm sleeping at my friend's house tonight." (Ok?)
